

TURNCOAT

A turncoat is a person who shifts allegiance from one loyalty or ideal to another, often betraying or deserting an original cause by switching to the opposing side or party. Specifically, it refers to someone who switches to an opposing side or party, and is often labeled as a traitor. The term can also describe someone who changes their opinion to an opposite one, indicating a lack of loyalty. In essence, a turncoat is someone who changes to the opposite party or faction, often reversing their principles. The term has historical roots and is widely recognized in discussions of loyalty and betrayal
