Chai Pe Charcha is a cherished annual event organized by the Literary Club, where students from diverse backgrounds in our college come together over a cup of tea to discuss important societal topics. This gathering promotes awareness and engagement with social issues, making participants more informed and involved citizens.

The event is structured into three exciting rounds. In the first round, participants tackle easy topics, with each speaker given a minute to share their views before the floor opens up for a lively debate. Those who excel move on to the second round, where the Just A Minute (JAM) session is skipped, and the discussion dives straight into medium-difficulty topics. The top performers then advance to the final round, which is always highly anticipated. This last stage features a challenging topic and no JAM session, leading to intense and passionate debates that truly bring out the best in our speakers.

Chai Pe Charcha is more than just a competition, it's a celebration of dialogue.
